Celebrating Learning

Over the past two years we learned how to be resilient in spirit, as well as continuing on our personal journeys to enjoy life. For many people that meant the opportunity to explore new authors, participate in library projects such as the successful “grab and go” bags, watch our children master arts and craft projects or listen to diverse speakers. The Los Altos Endowment Board continues to work with the Los Altos Library, the Santa Clara County Library District and the Friends Of The Library to financially support these broad opportunities to enrich people’s lives.

Star Library Recognition

A shout out to the Santa Clara County Library District for making the list of nationally ranked Star Libraries for the third year in a row. The designation is a recognition of top performing public libraries based on categories such as library visits, materials circulation, and usage of on-line content. A great proof point of the value our libraries bring to patrons.

Identifying New Connections

Silicon Valley Reads is a community program that features an annual theme with books to bring people together. LALE has a dedicated board member on the SVR Advisory Board, and provides financial support designed to attract talent, plan the event and help promote the series of more than 100 free, public events each year. 2021's theme of “Connecting” deeply resonated across the community as readers of all ages sought connections through books, arts, food, nature, animals, and music.

LOS ALTOS LIBRARY ENDOWMENT

It's Back!

Our GoGoBiblio mobile library vehicle is making the rounds again. It was at the September 30th Los Altos Farmers Market where 200 people stopped by. From the Los Altos Hills Picnic, Science on the Green, the Pet Parade and various Los Altos School District programs, the library is excited to be receiving an increase in invitations to participate.

This is a wonderful sign that we are emerging from the constraints of the pandemic. LALE is the proud sponsor of GoGoBiblio and is pleased to see it out making the rounds throughout the community.
